2. A few faculty have inquired about the possibility for their spouse to visit classes on campus day or evening. Faculty wives and husbands may visit classes with regularity, if they so desire, without cost to them. This is on a visitation basis only and should be cleared through the Office of The Dean in order that they may present a visitation card to the faculty member teaching that particular class. We would urge participation and use of Augusta College facilities, including the library, as a matter of courtesy to wives and husbands of teaching faculty. SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT:

Definition of procrastinator: an intelligent Augusta College student who says today that he will postpone until tomorrow the A.U.S.A. essay that should have been submitted three days before the day before yesterday.

Definition of compromise: the deliberate, reluctant action of a disappointed, disillusioned, dejected, desperate, despondent professor, who, despite the Augusta College enrollment of almost one thousand students, discovers that two (count 'em: 2, II, two!) essays have been submitted to the A.U.S.A. competition.

Definition of dialogue: an apparently polite, but occasionally inaccurate, juggling of words, as, for example, the following: "I would've entered the contest, but I didn't have enough time. And, moreover, in addition, furthermore, the deadline came just before the last week of classes."

Definition of comment: a gasp preceding a thud, as, for example, the following: "The essay contest was announced a month ago. The announcement has been repeated ... and repeated ... and r e p e a t e d."

Definition of last-ditch-stand: a sigh following a thud preceded by a gasp, as, for example, the following: "AUGUSTA COLLEGE ESSAYS FOR THE ASSOCIATION OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY COMPETITION SHOULD BE SUBMITTED TO DR. M. P. WOLF (SCIENCE BUILDING, SUITE A) ON OR BEFORE FRIDAY, MARCH 24."

Copies of contest rules and special research materials are available at the circulation desk in the Augusta College Library. Awards include plaques, one fifty-dollar savings bond, and two twenty-five dollar savings bonds.
